TURKS ARE NEEDED AT HOME.

A Berlin dispatch tells of Turkish troops at Lemberg, waiting to be thrown into the fighting on the eastern front.

Reports from the Caucasus would indicate that the Turks are needed at home. They have been driven back along the littoral of the Black sea and even in the interior of Asia Minor, and if the Sultan has any reserves available he should be employing them as a protection to the back door to his domain.

AS TO THE END OF THE WAR.

That the Germans will gain in strength as they fall back, is the view presented by an eastern war critic, who says:

"Fundamental conditions are little changed, the war still overruling all other considerations. That the struggle is drawing to its close every one believes, but the date and the terms of peace are as much a matter of guesswork as ever. The war might end much earlier than anticipated, provided some great event occurred tending in that direction. It is to be hoped that prognostications that the end will come with the New Year will prove correct; but such anticipations are almost too good to be true, and the struggle is quite likely to be carried into the coming year, judging by present resisting power of the Germans. The latter will in some respects grow in strength as their forces contract and fall back upon undevastated country, supplied with good railroad service and nearer the source of supplies. On the other hand, as the Allies press forward they leave behind them nothing but chaos, their supplies become more and more distant, and traffic routes will be temporarily demoralized. Hence, should the Allies continue their present rate of success, real progress for them will become more and more difficult as the armies move forward. This week marks the second anniversary of the war. Conditions have vastly changed during the interval. At the beginning the Germans were overwhelmingly on the aggressive. Now the Central Powers are on the defensive and driven back in every direction, while Allied preparedness is becoming equally overwhelming on every side. Thus far the cost of the war to all the belligerents has been over 40 billion dollars and about $1,300,000,000 of this amount was raised by loans in the United States. Should the struggle last another year, as expected by Kitchener, the outlay will run up to between 60 to 70 billions; a sum utterly beyond ordinary comprehension. Peace still seems a long way off, and when hostilities cease months must elapse before any treaty of peace will be actually signed."

COUNTRIES WILL BE BORN AGAIN.

What will the end of the war bring and how great will be the recuperative power of the nations involved are questions answered by Henry Cleva in this remarkably clear understanding of the forces which are now influencing and will influence Europe:

A great many careful and experienced observers look for a period of excessive prostration among the belligerents after the war. That there will be a period of severe economic exhaustion, need not be questioned, but not a few of the prophets of distress have underestimated the recuperative powers of the great nations. Great Britain, for instance, is undergoing a terrific strain in financing not only her own huge navy and army but also in the financial aid given her allies. England's resources are not confined to her own island, but must be measured also by the enormous resources of her colonies, her huge investments abroad, and the fact that her immense industries and sea-borne commerce have continued with little interruption. A nation carrying nearly one half the trade of the world and controlling such vast resources outside of herself is not likely to be seriously crippled by contest with powers of much inferior resources. Great Britain will probably come out of the war in better condition than any of the belligerents. She will probably emerge an Empire solidified, awakened, strengthened and more powerful than ever. Beyond question the war has welded the Empire into a unit as nothing else could. Upon Germany, however, the blow is likely to fall with much greater severity. German financial resources do not compare with the British. Her foreign commerce which ranked second in the world will be very seriously crippled. After the war grave fiscal problems will require the skill of her best financiers if she is to escape national troubles. Germany may also be threatened with momentous social and political readjustments, and should the Allies impose heavy burdens her recovery may be relatively slow. Yet it must be remembered the recuperative powers of Germany are great. Her people have a wonderful genius for organization, scientific thoroughness, hard work and economy, and may be depended upon to strain every nerve for the restoration of national prestige. Her territory has not and may not be devastated by war. Her mills and her railroads are practically intact, and it is doubtful if the Allies, even if successful, will ever make any perceptible inroads upon German soil. Germany's resourcefulness will be put to the greatest test imaginable, all the more surely because of the awful waste of life and skilled labor, but there is not the slightest doubt that she will make marvelous efforts towards recuperation. France and Italy may also be expected to recover more rapidly than anticipated in the present state of public opinion. Only a comparatively small strip of France has been destroyed; a valuable strip it is true, but the injuries are of a sort that can be quickly repaired, and twelve months of reconstruction in France will work miracles in the present regenerative temper of her people. The same will be true of Italy, provided the northern section of that country is preserved from invasion. Russia has been slightly hurt by the war. She is too vast, and has too large a population to feel the conflict very seriously. Russia is not a rich country except in undeveloped natural resources, but her more wealthy Allies are able to give her abundant financial aid, and after the war development on an enormous scale may be expected in Russia, in which the United States will undoubtedly have a share. In all of these countries, therefore, we may safely look for recovery from depression within a reasonable period after the resumption of peace, because these nations possess great genius, high spirit and vast natural resources which are only awaiting new development. All three of these countries will be literally born again, history proving that Great Britain, Germany and France have quickly recovered from struggles quite as severe relatively as the present. The same can hardly be said of Austria-Hungary, the Balkan States or Turkey. These nations do not possess the attributes just referred to, and some of them are decadent. For them a longer period of exhaustion is probably in store; and their problems, especially those of the Balkans, will be found far more difficult of adjustment than those of the other great European powers.

QUESTIONS NOT ANSWERED.

Charles E. Hughes is a wonderfully clever lawyer. He has the keen mind of one trained in picking flaws in the defense of the opposition. In his attack on Woodrow Wilson yesterday, he pictured the Mexican troubles in colors dark and placed in the administration in the position of a blundering, stupid, weak creature, wobbling under an impossible task.

When Woodrow Wilson answers, we shall obtain the other side. Woodrow, like Charles E., will see all the things favorable to his side and may fail to discover the shortcomings charged by his opponent.

We note the Tribune of Salt Lake has a laudatory editorial on Mr. Hughes' acceptance speech, but there is a paragraph in which the Tribune seems to attempt to excuse Mr. Hughes, as follows:

"Rational persons do not expect Mr. Hughes, in a formal speech of acceptance, to take up the thousand and one instances of our past relations with foreign countries and tell what he would have done. Mr. Wilson has expended reams of paper and great quantities of ink in writing notes to foreign governments de jure and de facto. Should Mr. Hughes discuss all these notes and all the occasions when Mr. Wilson took action, or failed to take action, and tell what should have been done in each instance, he would make himself appear absurdly puerile. Perhaps that is what the opponents of Mr. Hughes hoped he would do, but if the trap was set he has escaped it."

That is a defense which is an indictment. There are three or four questions Mr. Hughes must answer—not thousands of questions. One is, "What would you have done done in the matter of exporting munitions of war, if you were Woodrow Wilson?" Another is, "What would you have done in regard to submarine warfare and the other problems bearing on the European war which came before the present administration?"

The object of these questions is to eliminate, if possible, the suspicion that Mr. Hughes is seeking a big hypenated vote at the expense of a real American policy. Until this phase of the campaign is cleared up, there is a large independent vote that will continue to ask questions.

THE WOMAN NEXT DOOR.

Beautiful Irene Fenwick will be seen in a five-act photodrama of exceptional interest, also a roaring Musty Suffer Comedy. Utah Theatre today and tomorrow.

COLORED WOMAN USES HER FIST ON A WHITE MAN

Charles Howard, arrested last night on north Washington avenue by Chief of Police T. E. Browning and Traffic Officer Monson, on a charge of speeding in an automobile, pleaded guilty in municipal court this morning and was fined $10.

Grace White and Ruby Jones, colored, were arraigned on a charge of robbery and their preliminary hearings were set for August 8. The women are alleged to have forcibly taken fifty cents and a laborer's shipping ticket from the pocket of Lloyd Treseder, a transient, last night. According to Treseder, he and Ed. Pife, also a common laborer, were going to the union depot to ship out with a construction crew, to Idaho. When they reached the Wall avenue and Twenty-fifth street intersection, they heard a woman call and, hastening south on Wall avenue, met the two negroes. They started to run back toward the depot, but the women grabbed and searched them, getting a 50-cent piece and a shipping ticket from Treseder.

The women were placed under arrest by Patrolman C. P. Fitzgerald and taken to the police station. While being booked, the Jones woman, watching her opportunity, struck the complaining witness, Treseder, a hard blow on the jaw, staggering him for an instant.

One million women in France are employed on piecework at home.

FINED FOR RIDING HIS BICYCLE ON A SIDEWALK

Lewis Troseth was fined $10 this morning by the municipal court judge for obtaining tondorial service by false pretenses. He went into the Healy hotel barber shop yesterday evening and was renovated to the extent of a haircut and shave. He refused to pay the barber for the service and managed to get out of the shop. Officers Naylin and Moore, however, were soon on his trail one and one-half blocks east of the hotel and landed him in the city jail.

Walter Daley, J. L. Simpson, Joseph Hunter, Harry Glenn, John Copenhaven, Ed. McCormick and John Doe Clay, drunks, were each sentenced to serve five days in jail. J. J. Hantz, arrested on lower Twenty-fourth street yesterday by Officers Naylin and Moore, on a charge of drunkenness forfeited $10 bail. He was alleged to have slapped a small newboy.

H. E. Olsen pleaded guilty to riding a bicycle on the sidewalk and was fined $3. The offense was committed on West Second street and the defendant stated that he was giving his sick baby a ride and had chosen the sidewalk in order to avoid jolting the child.

BIG NOISE FOR OGDEN NEWSBOYS

Harry Bernstein, a human dynamo with a form like a Roman gladiator and a face like a Greek God, breezed into Ogden this morning. Sure you have heard of him. "King of the newsboys" and known from coast to coast by all the newspapers and among all the newsboys. He is in Ogden to show the newsboys of The Standard a real good time and to insert "pep" to increase their profits and selling ability.

The big noise in the work he has done in many of the cities together with his recommendations from a chain of newspapers entitles him to the undisputed name of "King of the newsboys."

Every real live boy in Ogden who wants to have a real live time, better come down and see the king for he is going to take all the newsboys and all the boys who want to be newsboys on a real live picnic. Mr. Bernstein is an organizer of newsboys' clubs and teaches the boys the art of getting into business for themselves and the value of clean, honest and right living.

Sure, just watch for the King tomorrow on the streets of Ogden and when you see a human dynamo rolling down Washington avenue tomorrow with a bundle of Standards under his arm and a bunch of newsboys following, that will be the king.

CHICAGO TOO WARM FOR DIRECTOR OF OGDEN CHOIR

"The only people who don't like Ogden are those who haven't been away," was the statement of Prof. Joseph Ballantyne this morning, following his return from Chicago, where he passed the last six weeks. "It is glorious here, after the awful heat that has prevailed in the east, the mercury reaching 105 degrees in the streets of Chicago, a number of days while I was there, with many prostrations and people unable to sleep."

Continuing, he said the city ordinances of Chicago, requiring the people to leave the parks at 11 p. m. and forbidding bathing in Lake Michigan along the Lincoln Park drive after 7 a. m. were suspended and more than 200,000 people slept in the parks all night and fully an equal number lined the lake front and sought refuge from the heat in the water at all hours of the day.

"Last week, the heat was particularly oppressive," the Tabernacle choir director stated, "but now I guess it is not so bad as we struck the cool water in western Nebraska. At it seemed to be sweeping eastward. At all events, I am glad to be back in Ogden again, with assurance of being able to sleep in comfort every night." Mr. Ballantyne went east for the double purpose of taking post graduate work in voice culture under D. A. Clippinger, former editor of the "Tribune" and one of the foremost American instructors, and to select a repertoire of choral music for the Ogden Tabernacle Choir's 1916-17 season. He greatly enjoyed his work with Prof. Clippinger, he said, taking two lessons daily, and passed nearly two hours each day in the offices of the Lyon and Healy, Oliver Ditson and John Church music companies, studying sample choruses. His evenings were mainly passed at Ravinia Park, which is enjoying its annual season of grand opera, and renewed acquaintance with Richard Hagemann, the director. Prof. Hagemann was director of the Panama-Pacific Exposition orchestra, to the accompaniment of which the Ogden Tabernacle sang in Festival hall, San Francisco a year ago.

Speaking of the prospective work of the choir for the coming season, Director Ballantyne stated that rehearsals would begin September 7. The choir will immediately take up the preparation of Dudley Buck's cantata, "The Story of the Cross," which will complete the sacred cycle, the other two cantatas being "Christ the Victor," and "The Coming of the King," already a part of the choir's repertoire. In addition to the presentation of these at appropriate seasons, and its Sunday service work, the chorus will prepare for several concert with noted artists and for several opera evenings.

PARTNERS FIGHT OVER BUSINESS

Hyman Stine and Nathan Wedge, joint proprietors of the Ogden Shoe hospital on lower Twenty-fifth street, engaged in a fight last night and were both placed under arrest. They were arraigned this morning in the municipal court on charges of disturbing the peace. Both entered pleas of not guilty and their trials were set for August 17th.

According to reports of the melee which resulted in the arrest of the two men, the men had been making countercharges of dishonesty against each other. The quarrel led to blows and Stine used a hammer on the head of his senior partner. A gash requiring three stitches to close was cut in Wedge's forehead and Stine was prevented from doing further damage by Police Chauffeur Gold Wheat, who overpowered him while in the midst of his fit of temper. Both men were taken to the police station and Wedge was attended by Dr. H. W. Nelson.

RUTH KEATING IS SEEKING DIVORCE

After remaining away from his wife, Ruth Keating, for a period of time during which he is alleged to have made no effort to support her and their two children, Robert and Richard, ages two and six months respectively, Edward Keating is facing application made by his wife for lawful obliteration of the bonds of marriage.

They were married in Danville, Ill., October 7, 1913. For the last six months the husband and father is alleged to have neglected his duties and contributed nothing towards the support of his dependents.

The defendants in the case of Antoni Van Benthum versus Frank Verhaal and A. J. Ver Haal Armont have filed their answer to the charge that they have failed and refused to pay a certain promissory note.

DECREASE IN THE COUNTY CENSUS

A decrease in the school census of Weber county outside Ogden, is indicated by the incomplete returns from fifteen precincts. There are now but six districts to report and unless they show a big increase the number of children attending the county schools this year will be far below that of last season.

L. H. Froerer, clerk of the county board, attributes the apparent decrease to the gradual migration into the big centers, and to the fact that the fruit business has failed in several of the smaller towns thus taking away the sole means of livelihood and necessitating a change of residence. The town of Pleasant View has shown the greatest decrease, having diminished every year for the last three.

BIG PICTURE TO BE PRESENTED HERE

Ernest Dee, formerly of Ogden, now connected with the General Electric company of Salt Lake City, and J. B. Bateholts from the General Electric company's home office in New York City, were in Ogden today for a few hours and left at 3:30 for points in Idaho and Montana.

Messrs. Dee and Bateholts were in Ogden on July 24 for the purpose of taking some moving pictures of the Pioneer parade. The General Electric company is producing a moving picture entitled "The King of the Falls" which, when finished, will be one of the most stupendous educational films ever produced. The picture shows the modes of transportation beginning with the saw saw, carrying her papoose and including the pony express, stage coach, handcart, ox team, prairie schooner, the first steam engine, the improved steam engine, the Twentieth century express right up to the electric flyer of the last several years.

The New York Central railroad permitted the Electric company to use the famous DeWitt-Clinton engine, the first railroad engine ever impelled.

Pictures were taken of the Royal gorge as the trains whizzed through, also of the plains of Kansas. One picture shows the newest type of electric engine winding its way through the Rockies near Butte, Mont.

This picture, which has already cost more than $30,000, will be lent to collectors throughout the United States for educational purposes. It will be shown in Ogden and Salt Lake City during the latter part of October.
